PACIFIC BASES OF U. S. UNDER JAP SCRUTINY

Nipponese Would Like to See Fortification of Them Checked.

NAVAL RATIO TO STAND

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Negotiations in the naval ratio question were practically at a standstill while the Japanese delegates awaited further word from Tokio today. By today the results of yesterday's conference between the principal American, British and Japanese delegates were under study by the Japanese cabinet and the diplomatic advisory council.

All indications were that whatever had been proposed as a means of bringing the United States and Japan together did not involve any abandonment of the 5-5-3 ratio proposed by the United States and supported by Great Britain but rather concerned other considerations which the Japanese regarded as necessary to them.

Chief among these was understood to be the question of further fortifications of the American bases in the Pacific which the Japanese wish to see checked. The relation of fortified bases is such to fleet ratio that there was suggestion the Japanese might regard the 5-5-3 proposal as not inconsistent with their standard of national security if details regarding them could be arranged

There was a decided impression among other delegates not represented in yesterday's conference that a means of approach to a settlement had been found outside of any alteration of the 5-5-3.

In general discussion, which has been aroused by the secrecy which surrounds the latest stage of the negotiations, a number of considerations are being mentioned as among those which might accompany the agreement. One of these is the general feeling that the Anglo-Japanese alliance is being dealt with and that there soon will appear a plan approved by both Great Britain and Japan to substitute it with some other sort of agreement to which the United States might be a party. One suggestion is for a set of arbitration treaties among the three powers with a provision that Japan would not be involved in war without six months' or a year's notice. Another consideration being discussed involved Japan's position in China.

The general feeling among delegates is that concessions to Japan, if they may be properly so termed, may be made which will cause her to accept the 5-5-3 intact.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—With latest developments in negotiations on the question of naval ratio for Japan, presented by delegation spokesmen as justifying optimism, although their nature was a closely guarded secret, the whole matter was expected to remain at a standstill today while Baron Kato communicated further on the situation with Tokio.

What new phase the negotiations may have entered as the result of the extended discussion of the ratio question at the conference of the naval big three yesterday still was a matter only of speculation today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Another important point in the Far Eastern discussions of the armament conference was won by China in the committee of the nine powers, Great Britain, Japan and France agreeing to retire from much of the leased territory of China. Japanese representatives, it was said, agreed to give up their leased territorial holdings in Shantung and are also reported as offering to discuss retirement from their special territorial privileges in Manchuria.

Pole Is Not Removed Because Permit to Do So Is Withheld

F. B Williams, division superintendent of plants of the Bell Telephone company, Pittsburg, states through E. F. Patterson, local manager, that the only reason the pole at Brimstone corner has not been moved to a new location a short distance along South Pittsburg street, is because of the refusal of the city authorities to issue a formal permit as required by city ordinances.

It is further stated the permit will be withheld until the city council is in receipt of a properly executed acceptance of the ordinance proposed to be granted for laying a conduit in Pittsburg street.

Mr. Williams says his company has been ready at all times to remove the pole and had a gang of men on the ground for that purpose but the necessary permission was not given

Proposed Conduit Ordinance To Be Discussed by Council And Citizens at Open Meeting

Taxpayers Seek Information As to Terms, Conditions and Provisions.

BIG GATHERING IS URGED

It was learned today at the meeting of the city council next Monday evening, when the proposed telephone conduit ordinance is to be further considered, the measure will not be formally introduced as a bill under the regular procedure in such cases, but that an opportunity will first be given citizens and taxpayers who are not yet familiar with its provisions, to become acquainted with the terms and conditions of the proposed grant.

There having been no information given out as to what the proposed ordinance specifically provides, or the stipulations imposed upon the Bell Telephone company by formal acceptance of the grant, there is a desire on the part of a large number of citizens to have the measure discussed in an open meeting with city council.

There has developed a strong sentiment against giving away rights owned by the people of the city without some form of substantial compensation in exchange. If it is possible for the city to provide a conduit for the use of all the telephone and telegraph companies of the city, upon the payment of a rental therefore, a new source of revenue will be provided, which the city very much needs, and to this extent relieve the taxpayers of still heavier burdens, which would not be possible if a free grant of underground rights is given at this time.

This phase of the situation has been given serious consideration by a number of large taxpayers during the last few days and at their solicitation an opportunity is to be given for a further study of the proposed ordinance before it is formally introduced. It is therefore urged upon all taxpayers that they manifest sufficient interest in the matter to be present in the council chamber on Monday evening in order to become fully informed concerning the features necessary to be incorporated in a grant of conduit rights, if it is found desirable to give such privileges at this time or to but one company.

Law on Promiscuous Shooting Is Being Generally Observed

By Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 3—There was much less shooting in the woods but just as many deer killed as in former years, if not more, in the opening days of this years deer season as the result of the new state law forbidding firing of guns at random in the opinion of officers of the game commission.

Game protectors have reported to the officers of the commission a general observance of the new act by the hunters. The law prohibits shooting except at legal game or a target. It was enacted in an effort to cut down the deaths and woundings caused by indiscriminate firing. Another thing which has attracted notice of state officers is that many more hunters are wearing red caps this year so they can be readily recognized in the woods.

Elmer Miller Neither Shot Nor Poisoned

First reported to have been probably fatally wounded by a bullet fired into his temple, then said to be suffering from an under-dose of poison, Elmer Miller of Franklin township, who is in jail in Uniontown charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Minnie Miller, at their home near Vanderbilt Thursday, was said today to be only feigning.

Physicians who examined him found nothing abnormal in his pulse and respiration and were quoted as expressing the opinion that Miller had not taken poison, as he said

What was believed to be a wound in the temple was disclosed to have been a self-inflicted cut.

When Coroner S. H. Baum opened the letter addressed to S. E. Porter, Vanderbilt druggist, it was found to contain Miller's will, leaving his estate to his children, no reference being made to his wife

The examination by the coroner showed Miller had shot his wife twice. One bullet entered the chest the other the head Miller had evidently re-loaded the revolver as only one chamber was empty Another bullet was found embedded in a fence evidently going through a window.

Relatives of Mrs Miller were the first to assert that Miller was not seriously wounded. They called the county authorities and demanded that he be arrested, it being feared he would take the lives of others.

There are five children in the family. They are Clayton, 26; Edwin 20, Jacob, 15; Eunice, 12, and Robert 9

The funeral service for Mrs. Miller will be Sunday at 2 o'clock at the home.

Ulster Attacked By Henderson at Labor Meeting

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Dec. 3—Members of the Dail Eireann cabinet assembled today to consider the British government's latest proposal for an Irish peace settlement. There is little optimism as to its decision and the Sinn Fein delegates who have returned from London are reported as believing the revised terms will be unacceptable to Eamon de Valera and his advisers.

Two Chauffers Slain, Bodies Thrown Into River, Missive Says.

CAN'T FIND THE WRITER

A clipping from the Denver, Colo. Post, received from Joe Constantine, a local boy connected with the Fitzsimmons General hospital at Denver tells of a double murder supposed to have been committed by a woman presumably of Connellsville, near the Shiprock Indian agency in San Juan county, N. M. The story is under a Durango, Colo. date line and is based on the facts set forth in a letter from Connellsville, Pa., received by Sheriff J. B. Winn The letter was mailed on November 5.

The letter is signed by the husband of the alleged murderess. His name has been withheld He says he would have told of the crime sooner but that his wife threatened to kill him if he did Successfully escaping her, the letter stated, he desired her arrest and expressed his willingness to give himself up when the officers got his wife

The clipping states that William Kelly, 22 years old, a taxi driver, and Samuel Grey, 37 years old, owner of a rooming house at Gallup, N. M were murdered by a woman near the Shiprock agency Sheriff Winn does not consider the letter a hoax or believe the writer to be insane. Both the men have been missing since August 1 and nothing has been heard of them since.

The clipping says:

"According to information Sheriff Winn has obtained, a man and woman claiming to be his wife, who had been at the Coal Basin mines in the Gallup district engaged on August 1, auto transportation from Gallup to Farmington, from Grey, who owned the machine, Grey engaged Kelly to do the driving but accompanied the party.

"While the party was traveling northward on the Farmington-Gallup highway through the Indian reservation and about 25 miles south of the Shiprock agency, Grey and Kelly were shot to death and their bodies thrown into a deep arroyo running full with water, and carried into the San Juan river. Robbery was the motive for the murders, Sheriff Winn believes. The automobile has never been found. Because the murder was committed on an Indian reservation, Sheriff Winn will ask the federal authorities to assist in clearing up the crime."

In the letter received by Sheriff Winn, the informant gives the details of the crime The letter follows:

"This is to inform you that on August 1, 1921, a double murder was committed in your county on the Gallup-Farmington road below the Shiprock Navajo Indian agency by——— who before that lived near the Coal Basin mines, near Gallup

"She shot and killed Billy Kelly with a .22 pistol and I was to have done the same to Sam Grey but got a chill at the last minute. She took hold of my hand and pulled the trigger of a gun on him, a .45 Colt.

"She then fired another shot at Kelly, after which she threw a canteen of water at me and forced me, under pain of death, to throw their bodies under the arroyo bridge directly opposite the river bridge at Shiprock

"This is my first opportunity for making the information, as she has watched me too close and threatened to kill me if I squealed. But now I have left her and am in hiding. My life is in danger until she is caught, as this is not her first crime. She committed perjury and bigamy when she married me.

"I will give myself up when I learn of her arrest."

State police came to Connellsville and with Chief of Police Thomas McDonald made an effort to locate the writer of the letter but without a No such person was known here said.

COKE COMPANY LITIGATION IN FEDERAL COURT

Order Pro Confesso Issued at Martinsburg, W. Va., Against Local Men.

NEW ACTION IS STARTED

Failure of the Southern Connellsville Coke company and the Splint Coal & Coke company to make answer to a suit of G. W. Thompson and S. J Harry of Connellsville and B. F. McNeil of Irondale, O., for accounting, filed in the United States District court for the northern district of West Virginia at Martinsburg, resulted in a order of the court that the bill be taken pro confesso (as if admitted) as to the defendants. The defendants have 30 days in which to appeal the ruling.

A similar order was filed in the case of the same plaintiffs against the Connellsville Fuel company, the Pennsville Coal & Coke company, the Northern Connellsville Coke company, Charles Detwiler, J. L. Schick, F. E. Markell and J. R. Davidson it being set forth that they made their appearance by counsel but that no answer was filed.

The orders bear date of November 25.

The action, in general, is for an accounting of commissions taken by the Connellsville Fuel company between July 21, 1920 and December 31, 1920, in the sale of coal and coke for the Southern Connellsville Coke company in which the plaintiffs are minority stockholders. The suit also seeks to have an accounting of the dealings of the defendants as individuals with the Southern Connellsville company.

The original action in the case was filed in the circuit court of the West Virginia at Morgantown but on October 14 a new suit was started in the federal court and on November 16 the case in the circuit court was withdrawn. Following the filing of the revised action the defendants were given until November 5 to make answer.

A charge of managing the affairs of the Southern Connellsville Coke company "in and for their own interest and for their personal benefit and to the loss and damage of the other stockholders" is made against F. E. Markell, Charles Detwiler and J. R. Davidson. In addition to failure to account for commissions on the sale of coal and coke through the Connellsville Fuel company, selling agency made up of members of the coke company, it is charged there were irregularities in the conduct of the business and that the by-laws of the corporation were changed to conform.

The Southern Connellsville Coke company operates under a West Virginia charter. Its plant is at Cheat Haven, in Fayette county, Pennsylvania.

Recently, on petition of the plaintiffs in the case, Dick Sherrick of Uniontown was named as receiver of the Southern Connellsville Coke company. An audit of the books by a Pittsburg firm of accountants is now under way and will be completed within two weeks, it was said.

The plaintiffs are represented by A. C. McIntire of Martinsburg, W. Va., formerly state senator, and at one time a solicitor for the department of justice.

The Poplar Grove and Johnston schools were honored on Patrons' Day by a visit from Commander W. P. Clark, Colonel J. J Barnhart, W. H. Shaw and Lyman S Strickler, members of the William F. Kurtz Post No. 104, Grand Army of the Republic. The veterans were extended an invitation to visit the schools and they were cordially received by the teachers and pupils, who had prepared special entertainment for their guests. The decorations at both buildings were purely patriotic, with American flags predominating.

The morning was spent at the Poplar Grove school, taught by Miss Anna Ward. This is a standard school and has an enrollment of 50 pupils. All but two were in attendance. Each of the veterans gave a talk and a small boy student read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Patriotic music was rendered. At noon the veterans went to the home of Mr. Strickler where they found an elaborate chicken dinner awaiting them

John Shurilla, World War Veteran and Inventor, Is Sentenced to Die in Chair

John Shurilla, a Hungarian, who served with the United States Navy as a member of a submarine crew during the World War, and who invented a listening device for submarines which was pronounced a success by the Navy Department, was sentenced in Uniontown this morning by Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen to die in the electric chair for the murder of Joe Grega near Wick Haven November 18, 1920. Efforts will be made to have the governor commute the sentence to life imprisonment and intercession will be made to the Board of Pardons and the Navy Department in his behalf.

Shurilla was the coolest man in the court room apparently, when the sentence was pronounced.

The crime for which Shurilla was convicted, at the March term of court, was committed in an effort to secure $400 cash which had been handed to Grega under the observation of Shurilla at Wick Haven and which Grega was taking to the First National bank at Perrygopolis for deposit. Shurilla did not get the money. The defendant, the evidence showed hid behind a pile of ties along a path and fired several shots into Grega Today, for the first time, it was made known why Shurilla did not get the money After Grega had been shot he arose and ran for about 100 yards and Shurilla, regretting the act and believing that Grega was not mortally wounded, hurried from the scene without attempting to extract the money from his victim's clothes He did not learn until later that his shots had taken life.

Shurilla was arrested the following December 29 in the act of shoplifting in a Pittsburg department store and identified as the man wanted in Fayette county.

Besides the submarine device Shurilla is the inventor of a door for mines which will close automatically following an explosion, cutting off air currents

Shurilla was to have been married on the day following that on which the killed Grega. He wanted the money for wedding expenses and the beginning of married life. Because of the turn of events the wedding was called off

TRAIN IS BOON TO SPORTSMEN

"Highball" Makes Nightly Trips Into North Country for Accommodation of Hunters and Others

Duluth, Minn—There is a tramp train on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad running up into the north woods that has gone on for year after year unheeding the advance of progress The train is known as the 'Highball' It makes its nightly flight into the north woods for the accommodation of lumberjacks sportive fisher men hunters and seekers of work picking up as a side issue a parcel of hogs or a herd of sheep

The "Highball" is composed of box cars wooden passenger coaches a combination smoker and baggage car and then a caboose

So the "Highball" wends its merry way almost unheedful of a schedule for it will drop off a fisherman or a hunter at any hour in the dead of night at any place he chooses to elect Or it may stop at a little cottage just around the curve, where a little woman is nursing back to health a husband with a cough The 'Highball' stops while the crew takes up a collection of butter eggs and potatoes gathered along the right of way

Truly, the Highball is unique as a train running in this advanced age

INDIAN DESIGNS ARE LATEST

Indications Are That Sport Clothes Will Copy Navajo Tribe and the Scandinavians.

If the sweaters which have been seen are an indication of what the coming season fashions are to be, the feminine world of sport clothes lovers will resemble the Navajo tribe and Scandinavian sportsmen.

Light backgrounds with Norwegian and Swedish designs in all the primary colors and darker backgrounds with Navajo patterns are the latest things in sweaters. As to colors, the fuchsia shades are in the lead, but every color the rainbow has ever displayed or suggested vies in popularity.

SATURDAY EVENING, DEC. 3, 1921.

FIRST AIDS TO EASY CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

The near approach of the Holiday season has already caused a recurrence of the sometimes perplexing question What shall I buy for Christmas?

If the people of Connellsville were less well supplied with facilities for answering this question such a situation might give them no little concern But fortunately they have at their command all the general requisite to an easy pleasant and satisfying solution of the question which otherwise might be both difficult and vexatious

Familiar with and alive to the diverse needs and tastes of Connellsville's discriminating buyers the merchants of the city have been so forehanded in making their preparations for the Holiday season that there exists no necessity for any buyer seeking elsewhere for anything they may desire to secure as yuletide remainders for their friends

With utmost care in selecting stocks of a wide variety rare taste in making display and provision for the convenience of patrons, local merchants have worked out their plans for serving Christmas buyers with a completeness that leaves nothing to be desired

Through the medium of The Courier which reaches many times more homes in the Connellsville buying district than any other publication containing the advertising announcements of the city's wide-awake merchants the members of families, by a study of these announcements in the quiet of the evening hours can make their shopping plans without discomfort, and with a degree of satisfaction not otherwise possible The following day they can visit the stores knowing beforehand precisely what they want and where to get it and without having to wear themselves out in a long search They can return to their homes early in a fine temper and mood and with ample time to make other preparations for a joyous celebration of the happiest time of all the year

With these first aids to easy shopping at their disposal the readers of The Courier are fortunate above all others in that they can find answer to "what shall I buy?" with the minimum of effort and the maximum of comfort and gratification

NOT BEING FOOLED BY "DOPE."

The people of Connellsville have every confidence that Mayor-Elect Mitchell and Councilmen-Elect Stone and Wardley are men of such sound common sense and good judgment that they will not lend themselves to a reorganization of the city government in the interests of an element which was unfriendly to their election and which has since been striving by propaganda and otherwise to create situations and conditions the object of which is to later embarrass and handicap the new administration

Thwarted in their designs to perpetuate the old order of things municipal some of the lieutenants and agencies of the Hand Pickers are planning, if possible to tie the hands of the new mayor and the new councilmen with a view to making it difficult for the new administration to carry through its program of better and more efficient government Having ingloriously failed to defeat the men who were committed to instituting a new regime in which the best interests of all the people of the city as a whole shall be safeguarded instead of furthering the plans and schemes of designing partisans those who opposed the proposed municipal reforms have in effect declared that they will see to it that the mayor-elect and his associates in council do not get by with their program of cleaning up the city

At least such is the construction the public is placing on the propaganda that is being put in circulation and the strenuous effort that is being made for the accomplishment of an ulterior and selfish purpose in the interest of things as they have been

The public is aware however that the newly elected members of the city government are fully capable of making up their own minds as to their duties and obligations that they do not need gratuitous advice and that they are not being fooled by the "dope being given currency through a medium of such limited influence and such wellknown antecedents, and exploited for so apparent a purpose, that the efforts excite ridicule rather than serious consideration by any one least of all by the recently elected municipal officials

While there are 18 more shopping days until Christmas there are but three more Sundays upon which you can compete with the kiddies in regularity of attendance at Sunday school and church services Better keep this in mind when you turn over in bed for "just another little nap" in the morning

CONFERENCE DOING THINGS ON BIGGER SCALE THAN ROMANS

Delegates Just as Able as the Famous Characters of Ancient History.

OVERSHADOWS ALL ELSE

By Mark Sullivan
National Political Correspondent of The Courier and the New York Post

WASHINGTON Dec — H G Wells spoke the other day of reading what Plutarch had said about the Roman Cato I felt like asking him why read Plutarch or Cato when you can read Wells on Kato in the evening paper—not only read about Kato but see him in the flesh and in action and not only see Kato in action but see Hughes and Harding and Root and Balfour and Briand and the others I suspect that an entirely reasonable argument could be made that these men are just as able and just as big in personality as any of the old Romans were Certain it is easily demonstrable that the affairs these men are dealing with are decidedly more important than the affairs the old Romans managed

What the men who meet every day in the white marble Pan American building are doing is on a vastly larger scale than anything the Romans ever had to do It is on a larger scale in proportion as the civilized world of the present is larger than the civilized world of nineteen hundred years ago Not only is the scale larger by the degree in which the civilized world is larger It is infinitely enlarged also by the fact that so much more of the world is able to read and follow public affairs with intelligence and conviction

It must have been comparatively easy for one of those old Romans to come to the front in that relatively small world of educated men In the Roman world probably the number of persons who had an intelligent understanding of public affairs was not larger than a fairly small American town For the rest the Roman Empire consisted of a few millions of illiterate dependents and serfs It must have been a very much easier process for a man of ambition and ability to push himself to the top of the world than it is for men like Harding and Hughes and Balfour and Briand and Kato to push themselves to the front of their respective nations

My conversation with Wells was jocular and took place in one of the friendly contacts that are characteristic of the informal surroundings of the conference Nevertheless I suspect that a reasonably serious thesis could be written on the theory that what is happening here before our eyes is about as large as most of the things that constitute the high peaks of history Wells, the reporter in the daily papers is not less important than Wells the historian in his Outline of History It ought to be possible for the reader who has some imagination to get as much exaltation out of a two cent evening paper today as out of any of the volumes of Plutarch or Gibbon assuming of course that the reporters of these present events have the ability to describe them adequately

For that matter the reporters who are here to describe the conference like the statesmen who participate in it are the elect of their particular world The reporting of course cannot be as good reading as Plutarch or Gibbon or a host of minor historians It is only after reflection and detachment and only with the thoughtful care that comes with leisure that this conference can be described adequately as a matter of history All that will come later For the present necessarily the writing must be hurried But the fact remains that for the purpose of reporting the conference men who are here are like the statesmen who compose it the most exalted of their generation

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of that Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 542, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. These dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about your health. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Fine Looking Material For Basketball Quintet Reports to Coach Wine

Cokers Will Have Good Team in Field This Season, Belief.

HOPE TO LEAD LEAGUE

Entering its fourth season of basketball it begins to look as though the Connellsville high school will have a team that will be a real contender for high scholastic honors. The basis for such a statement is merely the material which has reported to Coach Wine for practice. No scrimmages worthy of note have yet been held, nor has the squad been developed to a point where the finer points of the players have been brought out. Nevertheless, the Cokers have a big field of candidates and among those who will hardly make the team this season are youths who will surely make enviable records for themselves in the next two seasons.

There are some fine looking first string candidates and they are being thoroughly drilled in early season work. The only man of experience missing from the floor at present is "Ab" Soisson, captain, who is ill at his home.

Something not being overlooked by those who are gazing into the future is the fact that only one man, Soisson, will graduate from what will probably be the regular quintet this season. This will leave a seasoned team for the 1923-23 schedule.

It is probable a few pre-holiday games will be played but the real season will hardly get under way until the first part of January. The team will be kept in trim, however, and every man is hoping for a high place in the W. P. I. A. league.

Soisson, Captain Of C. H. S. Dribblers, Is Ill at His Home

"Ab" Soisson, forward and captain of the Connellsville high school basketball team, is ill at his home in Washington avenue. The little speed artist who finished the football season by coming to the front as one of the best of backs, has been anxious to get onto the floor with his team and it is unfortunate that he should be ill at this time.

It is not so important that Soisson get the preliminary instruction the squad is now undergoing but as captain his presence is missed. Soisson has taken on coniderable poundage since last season which should help him considerably more in basketball than it did on the gridiron.

As a leader of the Cokers he is popular. He is well liked by players and fans alike and he is one who will work his hardest to keep the Orange and Black defenders well to the front on the leading ranks.

The Tornadoe football team is out to win today by a margin of three or more touchdowns. A decisive score over United is desired, especially since Brownsville was able to beat the team by a lonely tally. If such a victory is won then the team feels it has every right to again play the Brownsville Independents.

The Tornadoes are willing to play the second game at Bailey Field, Uniontown, also. Uniontown fans are anxious for the game. They are glad to see some real artists and good sportsmanship whenever the opportunity offers.

Rochester and Westinghouse high school play today for the title of champion in high school football circles. The game is scheduled for Carnegie Tech's field in Pittsburg.

The high school girls are getting into shape for their basketball season. The young ladies in C. H. S. have often proved more consistent winners than the varsity.

The Temple alleys, which recently opened, are becoming popular with the women. The fair sex have been getting into the rolling habit in increasing numbers. A number of women also roll on "ladies' night" at the Elks Home.

There is going to be a three-way vote when high school football letter men elect next year's captain following the dinner at the First Presbyterian church next Tuesday evening.

One of the teams the Cokers hope to play during the coming floor season is Crafton. The quintet at that place is coached by J. P. Rupp, who had charge of the local squad last season. Rupp is still a popular man here and it would be interesting to see his team in action against that of Coach Wine. Both men have practically the same methods of teaching the game.

At a banquet of the Pitt football team last night, Tommy Holleran, quarterback, was elected captain for the 1923 season.

Washington & Jefferson college plays the University of Detroit in the city of Silvers today. Then the Red and Black team will travel to the coast where the University of California will be played in the tournament of roses.

The tickets for the "booster day" game between South Greensburg and the Tornadoes, which the management intends to honor, will not be good today as the entire proceeds go to the Woman's Culture club. When the Tornadoes play here on December 10, however, the pasteboards will be honored.

A Brownsville fan told a Connellsville supporter during the game in Uniontown between the Tornadoes and the Brownsville Independents that it cost the victors $800 for the ringers with which the team was loaded.

Town of Ball Stars.

Every thirteenth person born in Mesquite, Tex., turns out to be a professional baseball player.

With a population of 850, this little town, which is located a few miles south of Dallas, has sent 27 native sons to organized baseball, and some of them have been big league players.

They began to raise their boys to be ball players back in the eighties, when Babe Polly went up to the National league as a catcher. Then they sent Mike Erwin to Brooklyn, Jack Kimbell to Pittsburgh, Buddy Napier to Cincinnati, and other players to minor leagues.

YALE TO BOOK GAME WITH IOWA IN 1922

Signing of Contracts Remains to Clinch Struggle.

Tad Jones, Eli Coach, Knowing Strength of Hawkeyes, Dodged Contest This Fall—Westerners Must Play in East.

From reliable sources it has been learned that Iowa and Yale will engage in an intersectional football game in the New Haven bowl next year. In fact, all that remains to clinch the struggle is the signing of the contracts.

Howard Jones, the Iowa coach, and Tad Jones, who develops football teams at New Haven, are brothers. Talk of such a contest was heard last summer, but it has now developed into a reality. It is also understood Iowa was anxious to play Yale this fall, but Tad Jones, knowing the strength of the Hawkeyes, postponed the meeting for a year.

According to information, there will be no home-and-home series. Iowa will play Yale on the Blue eleven's gridiron, but Old Eli will not come West for a return engagement. This is to be regretted, as Chicago and Princeton have a home-and-home series and there is every reason to believe Harvard and Illinois may enter into a similar contract.

Intersectional struggles are growing in favor. Gridiron fans are anxious to see new teams and players, and the interest aroused over games between elevens of two sections makes the short gridiron season more exciting.

Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy, states that during his career as a member of the University of Michigan football team he never tried "to put out" another man, even though the opponent was a good ground gainer.

WILLIE HOPPE'S SUCCESS DUE TO GREAT POWER OF CONCENTRATION

Willie Hoppe, Champion Billiard Player.

William Hoppe of New York has been the billiard champion so long that people almost forget when he first won the title. However, it was in 1906 when he defeated Vignaux, in Paris, for the 18.1 championship, and Hoppe was just eighteen years old at the time. He has not held the championship uninterruptedly all this time, though pretty near it. He has held the 18.1, 14.1 and 18.2 professional championships.

Never Takes a Chance.

Hoppe is a careful player who never takes a chance. He frequently refuses to play a difficult shot that would give him theoretically a perfect position, but plays instead the shot that is the easier, content with a less perfect position. Making the shot is paramount in his mind. This is what makes him such a good match player. If he is weak at any part of the game it might be the masse, as he frequently refuses that style of shot to play a bank shot. He is deadly accurate on a one-cushion shot. He excels over the other players on a dead ball.

Willie's power of concentration is remarkable. During a game the world does not exist beyond the limits of the brass rail surrounding the table. He uses a short cue weighing 20 ounces and about 53 inches long. He has a short stroke, depending more for most of his play on a snappy wrist motion rather than upon the forearm. Yet when occasion requires he can carry his forearm well forward, giving a perfect follow-through stroke.

Always in Condition.

Hoppe is well built, almost stocky, quick and muscular. He always seems to be in perfect condition and has never smoked or used liquor. Some little discussion has arisen from time to time as to the relative abilities of Hoppe and the late Frank Ives, but it seems to be the opinion of the majority of billiardists who have seen them work that Hoppe is the greatest billiard player that ever lived.

GREAT RIDERS COME FROM MANY SOURCES

Jockey Laverne Fator Got His Start on Idaho Ranch.

His Horsemanship Attracting Attention of All Critics—Ride on Surf Rider at Aqueduct Was Stirring Piece of Work.

No occupation in connection with the turf presents greater rewards to those who are successful than that of jockey, but skill in the saddle calls for exceptional qualities, and few capable riders seem able to stand success. The history of racing in every country is studded with instances of jockeys who refused to take their calling seriously. It is only when some promising boy is disciplined for indiscretions or dishonesty that the rank and file of the turf world have their attention focused on the subject.

The period in which success is to be won is short and calls for constant self-denial and the most scrupulous fidelity to the interests of employer and public. Those who have strength of character have no difficulty in acquiring a competence for the time when they have lost their skill or grown too heavy for further duty in the saddle.

Jockey Laverne Fator.

The great riders of the past have come from all sources, but the best of them have been recruited from the stables of horsemen making a specialty of developing jockeys. McLaughlin, Garrison, Griffin and others of our best men to the saddle received the rudiments of their horsemanship in this way. It is unusual when a boy acquires skill in any other field, and for this reason the history of Laverne Fator, now regarded as a leader in his profession, is unique.

Fator's horsemanship assumed a quality this season that is challenging the attention of the critics. His ride on Surf Rider in the Babylon handicap at Aqueduct was one of the best pieces of saddle work seen this year. This young man—he is twenty-one and married since last winter—was born in Hailey, Idaho, and he learned to ride while working on a cattle ranch in his native state.

Sammy Mayer, outfielder of the Atlanta Southern league team, has recovered nicely from his recent operation for appendicitis and declares he will be a better ball player than ever next year.

Alibis for Umpires

Umpire Tom Connolly has two alibis. One is that managers and players, not umpires, are to blame for games being long drawn out, which probably is correct. His other alibi is that umpires find it hard to follow the ball when overflow crowds are on the field and thus can't do good work calling balls and strikes—with which players at least may agree when they fail to hit the ball.

They Challenge Comparisons

The Sedan represents the highest development of the automotive industry. Year by year it has grown in popular favor. Unquestionably the motoring public now regard it as the most serviceable and desirable of all motor car models.

Paige has specialized in cars of this type for more than a decade. The new Paige Sedans are the fine flower of this experience—examples of creative ability, automotive knowledge and manufacturing resources that compel consideration and challenge comparisons.

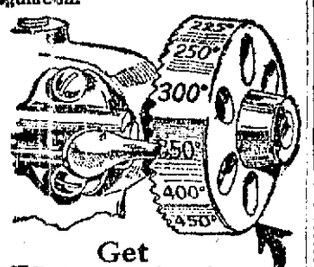

Three outstanding facts set these cars apart from all others, irrespective of price: Their beauty of design and equipment; the recorded and acknowledged superiority of their motors; and their exceptional value. Establish these three facts for yourself by demonstrations and comparisons.

List prices of Paige Cars range from $1635 to $4030

MOUNT PLEASANT WOMEN LEARN OF SCHOOL PROBLEMS

Finance, Necessity of Co-operation, Other Phases Are Discussed.

NUTRITION CLASS NEWS

Teachers Say Energetic and Efficient Work on Part of Students Goes Hand in Hand With Gain in Physical Health; Drinking Milk Is Urged.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 3.—The meeting of the Women Voters league, held at the municipal building on Thursday evening, was one of unusual interest. Mrs. Samuel Warden made an excellent introductory address in which she stated that the motive of the league was not politics but education and that each person holding office from time to time be brought before the league so that at the coming elections they might know for whom they are voting.

C. E. Zimmerman, a member of the school board, told of the schools of a community in general and very definitely outlined the workings of the local schools.

Dr. M. W. Horner spoke on finances. It cost $75,000 to run the local schools last year. With about 1,200 students per capita cost was $65. He also spoke of the salaries paid teachers.

Prof. John C. Haberlin, principal of the schools, made a most excellent talk, approaching his audience with questions: "Do you keep in touch with your schools and school board?" "Do you know how many teachers you have and do you know them when you meet them?" "Do you cooperate with the school?" Using these as a basis he gave interesting talk on how the parent and citizen could be a help to the school.

Miss Anna Berthel talked of Third ward schools and dwelt on the library and expressed a desire for a larger playground.

Miss Opal Berthel represented the First ward and told of the advantages of a library and how the children enjoyed their playground.

Prof. Haberlin endorsed the Nutrition classes that Miss Bertine Collins of State college had started.

Mrs. S. C. Stevenson informed the audience State college is ready to send two dressmakers for two weeks in the spring if the town wants them. The only cost will be the furnishing of the machines and the room.

The next meeting of the league will deal with council and its problems and councilmen will speak.

In the nutrition class contests this week, Louise Marsh showed the greatest gain in weight of students in the First ward schools—one and one-half pounds; James Daniels in the Third ward, two and three-quarters pounds. Teachers have reported to Miss Bertine Collins, the State college representative conducting the classes, that the children who are growing in weight are showing greater efficiency in school work. Drinking milk is being urged on the children. Milk buttons are being supplied all who drink a quart a day. Home records have been supplied the children to keep informed on the amount consumed. Miss Collins was assisted this week by Mrs. G. T. McNeish, Miss Anna Gailey, Miss Haslund and Miss Margaret Byers. The visitors were Mrs. S. C. Stevenson, Mr. Haberlin and Miss Anna Berthel.

Almost $10,000,000 Paid in Five Years To Disabled Persons

Persons permanently disabled in Pennsylvania industries have been awarded compensation totaling nearly $10,000,000 by the State Workmen's Compensation Board in the five years the board has been in existence, Commissioner Clifford B. Connelley has announced. The total awards have amounted to $9,939,160.

Of this amount $5,992,185 has been paid, and the balance is yet to be paid in installments. During the two years of the war the board paid an average of $,920,000 a year to beneficiaries under the workmen's compensation act for permanent injuries, and in 1919 it paid $2,281,837, and for the first ten months this year, $2,370,617.

There are 628 cases for which petitions have been filed with the federal government and affecting $1,200,000 of Pennsylvania compensation. The cases are those of enemy aliens who left the country at the outbreak of the war or who, having worked or lived here prior to that time, were in enemy countries during the war.

In the first 10 months of this year 3,391 workmen's compensation cases were disposed of by the 12 referees, breaking all previous records. The figure for 1920 was 2,615.

There were 1,642 cases pending in the compensation bureau, some of which will be cleared up before the end of the year.

SUPERPOWER PLAN WOULD PREVENT A LARGE FUEL WASTE

At Mines, on the Railroads and in Industries of All Kinds.

OPERATION OF TRAINS

By Electric Locomotives Would Result In Many Advantages and More Satisfactorily Meet the Present Crowded Conditions at Great Terminals.

Investigations by the United States Geological Survey, embodied in the report of the proposed superpower system for the region between Boston and Washington, show a waste of coal used in the production of power by the industrial establishments in this zone in the year 1919 to the amount of 13,502,100 tons. In other words, the energy developed by these establishments by the burning of 19,125,000 tons of coal could have been developed in large central power plants by the burning of 5,623,300 tons. This was a waste through inefficient independent power production of 71 per cent in coal consumption.

Looking ahead to 1930, with the increased demand for power that can then be reasonably expected, the total coal saved under the unified system, it is stated, will be 50,000,000 tons. Under motor operation the industries could save $190,000,000 annually in that power bill and could make a greater output of product.

The superpower system comprehends also a plan of power production that includes the generation of electricity by stream at tidewater and on inland waters where a sufficient quantity of condensing water can be obtained, and also the utilization of all hydro-electric power that may be economically obtainable from rivers within the zone or within the transmission distance of it. The electric power so generated will be coordinated through a system of interconnected transmission lines, the potentials of which will be on the order of 220,000 and 110,000 volts.

Economy of investment and economy of operation are the two ends sought by this plan, the outstanding feature of which is a great network of inter-connecting transmission lines which makes a system of many units. This transmission network and its substations would require $104,000,000 by 1930, and the total investment cost of the system the same year is given by the engineers as $1,109,564,000, of which $693,218,000 would be new money, for more than $400,000,000 worth of existing steam-electric and hydro-electric plants are retained in service.

The industry using the largest amount of coal in the region is anthracite mining, and in this industry a coal saving of more than 75 per cent could be made if the mines were supplied from an efficient central electric power system. Many industries, it is stated, could save coal by the use of waste-heat boilers. Probably the greatest saving by this means could be made in the cement industry. It is estimated that if waste-heat boilers had been in use in 1919 in all the cement plants in the superpower zone, 540,000 tons of coal would have been saved in that single industry.

There are many blast furnaces in the superpower zone which are isolated from any steel plants or rolling mills, and approximately half their gases are wasted. These wasted gases would produce sufficient heat for boilers to generate 500,000,000 kilowatt-hours a year.

The advantages to be derived from the electrical operation of railroads in the superpower zone include the conservation of national resources, both coal and labor; an increase in the capacity of main and yard tracks, an improvement of the physical condition of terminals and an increase in the value of the property, as shown by the New York Central and Pennsylvania terminals in New York City; benefits both to the traveling public and to residents along the route through the elimination of noise and smoke; the possibility of providing multiple-level terminals and freight warehouses; and economy in operation through the use of fuel and machinery for generating energy by a few skillful operators in economical stations as contrasted with a large number of technically ignorant operators with small, uneconomical machines.

A considerable saving in time and hence an increase in capacity under the superpower system will be made by lengthening the operating divisions, which will be from 200 to 400 miles long instead of 100 miles. An electric passenger locomotive will run in the morning from New York to Boston and will return in the afternoon or at night, making a total run of 459 miles a day. A similar round trip will be made between New York and Washington, or New York and Syracuse. The electric locomotive can be kept at work on the road for 20 hours a day, and if operated at an average speed of 25 miles an hour it can run 500 miles a day. This mileage however, is double that of the electric passenger engines now used on the New York, New Haven & Hartford line and is higher than would be obtained as an average, but there is every reason to believe that with unified operation an average between 250 and 500 miles can be made.

A Test Case Over Price Fixing Goes To Supreme Court

The case of the Morrisdale Coal company of Philadelphia against the government, to recover the difference between the contract price of certain coal diverted by the Fuel Administration during the war and the fixed price, was argued before the United States Supreme Court recently.

According to the plaintiffs 12,823 tons produced by the company was diverted from its usual channels by order of the Fuel Administration. The price realized on this tonnage was $3.30 per gross ton, whereas the contracts on which it would otherwise have been applied called for payment at the rate of $1.50 per gross ton. This difference of $1.20 represented an aggregate loss of $15,387, it is contended, and the company filed a petition with the United States Court of Claims for that sum.

The government demurred to the petition and the Court of Claims sustained the demurrer. An appeal was then taken to the Supreme Court, which heard the arguments of both sides a few days ago.

This is in the nature of a test suit, and if the Supreme Court holds that the Morrisdale company is entitled to compensation, many other companies that lost money by similar diversions will no doubt begin action to recover from the government.

The plaintiff contended that the diverting of its coal was a taking of private property for the public use and that while the functioning of the Fuel Administration was an exercise of war power conferred upon Congress by the Constitution the fact that its coal was taken incidental to the exercise of such power does not repudiate the obligation of the Constitution to make just compensation for it.

In determining what constitutes just compensation, the counsel asserted that the value to the individual from whom the property is taken should be the basis and that in this case such value is the price the company would have received under bona fide contracts made prior to August 10, 1917.

Before the Advent of the Audit Bureau of Circulations in 1914, each publisher made his own circulation statements to advertisers.

Many of them were truthful. Some were not.

But there was confusion and lack of uniformity. An intelligent comparison was impossible. Details regarding distribution were not generally given because there was no standard of practice in keeping the records.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations has brought order out of chaos. Today the Bureau's system of keeping records is almost universal among the better publishers. Uniform reports are furnished to advertisers by that absolutely independent organization.

The experienced advertiser demands A. B. C. reports and if the publisher has nothing to hide, he gets them.

A. B. C. reports in The Courier are furnished on request.

Furnace Ovens Make Still Further Increase in Output Lead Over Merchant Plants

Score Second Weekly Gain of Over 7,500 Tons While Latter Drop Behind.

WILL SUSPEND OPERATION

Rather Than Sell Spot Furnace Below $3.25, Is Attitude of Leading Producers; No Betterment in Situation Expected Until First of Year

From The Weekly Courier.

The production lead of the furnace over the merchant ovens, which was regained during the week ended November 19, was further and quite materially increased last week. This was accomplished notwithstanding the furnace ovens made but a five-day running schedule Thanksgiving Day having been observed at all plants of the H. C. Frick Coke company, and with a few exceptions at other furnace operations.

The rate of furnace gain was practically the same as during the preceding week as was also true of the recession by the merchant plants The furnace oven tonnage was 42,860, or 7,560 tons greater than in the week of November 19 when the gain had been 7,770 tons over the week of November 12.

The merchant ovens fell behind 1,580 tons as compared with 1,620 tons of the immediately preceding week. The regional tonnage of 74,620 therefore represents a net increase of 5,940 tons against a similar increase of 6,150 tons during the week before.

While a few of the merchant operations made a six-day run the bulk of them had no occasion to change their schedule which had previously been reduced to five, four, three or a less number of days sometime ago. There was no increase in demand from consumers and, if any developments were noticeable, it was the tendency of buyers on contracts to have shipments held back rather than rushed forward to destination. In that situation there was no incentive for the merchant operators to do more than keep plant operation well in hand in order to avoid accumulations of stock or unassigned cars, and be ready, as some of them are, to wait until well along in the new year before any decided change for the better takes place.

Although some coke has been sold at a price regarded by the bulk of operators as altogether too low, those having a better appreciation of the value of their product are declining to be drawn into a price-cutting contest. Realizing also that the condition of the market is such that a shading of price offers no incentive to buyers who have no pressing need for coke, they are refraining from strenuous effort to find places to make shipments This policy on the part of the real leaders among the producers explains why they have assumed the attitude that they will suspend operations rather than sell spot furnace coke at less than $3 25, at which figure they are making shipments on orders already in hand.

The coal market reflects the conditions prevailing in coke. Demand has in a large sense disappeared and importunities and offerings at low prices to take stock off producers' hands avail little or nothing. Both coal and coke consumers are very much occupied in discussing the probable reduction in freight rates and have formed the conviction that readjustments will be made within a comparatively short period In this view, and the slowing down of business which always occurs toward the close of the year, the expectation is that both coal and coke will drag along until freight reductions have been ordered or it is positively known that relief from this source is not to be forthcoming until later

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, November 26, was 74,620 tons, credited to the two districts as follows. Connellsville, 41,110, an increase of 9 640 tons, Lower Connellsville, 33,510, a decrease of 3 700 tons, or a net increase of 5,940 tons as compared with a net increase of 6,150 tons during the preceding week.

By interests the production was: Furnace, 42,860, a gain of 7,520 tons, merchant, 31,760, a loss of 1,580 tons, as compared with a gain of 7,770 and a loss of 1,620 tons respectively, during the week ended November 19

There was a decrease of 202 in the number of ovens in blast, 100 at furnace and 102 at merchant plants The ovens blown out were: Ellen No 2 50; West Penn, 33: Puritan No 1 and 2, 84; Sackett, 15, Geneva 100; total, 282. Blown in, 80 at Washington No. 1.

What a Clothier Must Be

By Wright-Metzler Co

There is an old saying which our grandmothers were very fond of quoting and while it is pretty nearly forgotten now it contains more truth than poetry. Do you remember when you, as a youngster asked grandma how you looked she used to reply, "Pretty is as pretty does?"

This little saying applies to all merchants—a little more so to one's clothier. We want our clothier to be agreeable, friendly and obliging. We do not care if he is handsome of feature or dressed like a fashion plate. His smile eradicates any impression as to his lack of personal pulchritude—if he is lacking.

We want him to be bright He must know what he is talking about and be able to grasp what we are talking about

He must possess intuition and initiative When he looks at us he must know what will become us and what will please us. He must have the "nerve" to make suggestions when we are undecided

He must be energetic Have you ever met a clothier who will bring out a couple of suits and then stand with a bored expression on his face and his whole attitude is asking indifferently "Well, what are you going to do?"

He must be amiable If you can not decide and wish to wait until another day, he must not "throw things around" which is really the only words that express his attitude but must be pleasant and invite us to call again

These are a few rules for the ethics of a clothier

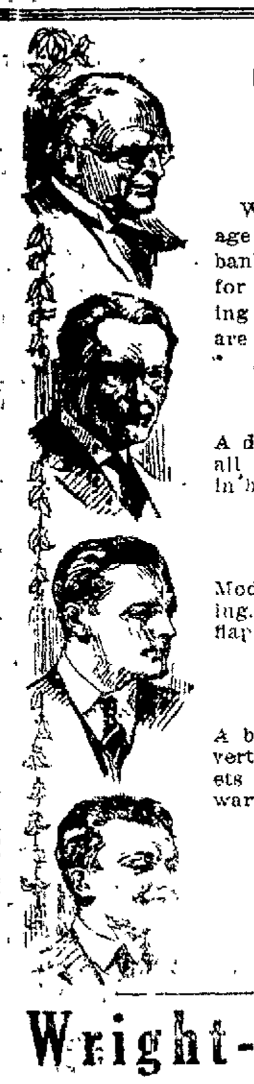

Know a man by his clothier!—Advertisement.
